RAM Printing Celebrating 30 Years of Excellence in 2006

Owners Wally and Buddy Zaremba, along with the entire staff of RAM Printing are proud to be celebrating the Company's 30th Anniversary-30 Years of Excellence in 2006. The original owner, Robert A. MacAuley, for whom the company was named, incorporated RAM in 1976. The Zaremba brothers purchased the company, then located on Route 125 in Plaistow NH, in 1981 and began the fine tradition of Excellence in quality and service that RAM is known for today.

Outpacing many competitors, this commercial printing company has continually sought to invest in proven technologies and capital investments which in turn has allowed the company's continued growth throughout the years.

It was 1984 that the company expanded and moved its production facility from Plaistow to its current location on Route 111 in East Hampstead, NH. Since that move, the RAM family has expanded to include Hampstead Print and Copy; a retail center, RAM Mailing Service; and on site facility for USPS mailing, and Guestmark International which serves the hospitality industry throughout the country with printed materials as well as guest directory binders, menu covers and the like. All four companies operate from the East Hampstead facility.

"It's a family company" stated Wally. "Our employees are long-term and some of the best in the industry. Our success can be measured in our enduring relationships with vendors and clients—decades long partnerships that have allowed them to grow and succeed with us. We are thankful to them all."

The owners and employees of RAM plan to celebrate this milestone anniversary throughout the year, with special focus on an Open House Event at the East Hampstead location in late May. More details on that event and other anniversary notes will be shared in the coming weeks.
